BIBLIOGRAPHY

The contributions to Lincoln literature during the first three months of the year have been so numerous that the limited space of this broadside will allow but a small percentage of them to be listed. The number of outstanding Lincoln editorials, addresses, tributes, reminiscences, etc., which appeared in the magazines and newspapers for February, constitute the largest compilation of current Lincoln items during any single month since the centennial year, 1909.

January, February, March, 1930
