BEST LINCOLN MAGAZINE ARTICLE, FIRST QUARTER, 1944

Before the Lincoln Foundation Advisory Group could make a selection of the best magazine article for the Lincoln birthday period, it was necessary to issue both a preliminary and a final ballot. An article by R. Gerald McMurtry, entitled, "Was Thomas Lincoln Photographed?" appearing in the Lincoln Herald, for February, was awarded first place among the contributions appearing in the periodicals issued during the first quarter of 1944.

There were too many Lincoln magazine articles issued during January, February and March to tabulate them all in one issue of Lincoln Lore, and still our attention is being called to others that escaped us. A fragmentary list of those which seem to fall within the scope of the Foundation cataloguing system, appears in this issue.
